Americans Tell of Queer Happening While "Doing Europe."

How cat language is unalterably conthem at this time, but heed the warning of France is a story told by one of a fused with his first impressions of trio of far western Americans who complexion, the urinary disorder, and begin have arrived at the Hotel du Louvre after "doing Europe" for the first time.

The party is composed of W. Virges, a lumberman from Tacoma, and E. E. Coovert, a Portland (Ore.) attorney, and his wife, who has been studying operatic singing in Dresden.

"I didn't know we had crossed the German-French frontier," said Mr. Coovert. "I was asleep on the seat and a French lady with a cat in a basket got aboard and went asleep alongside. Suddenly the cat started to cry, and, waking up, I discovered I was leaning too close to the lady (probably mashing the cat), and as she awoke, too, she pulled out her ticket, waving it in my face. As I couldn't talk French, I told her in English I didn't want her ticket, but to give it to the conductor. When somebody came to explain I discovered the trouble to be that I was taking up too much of the seat. Things like that don't happen at home."

At Mayence Mr. Virges says he worked a unique scheme to see the Kaiser during the maneuvers. "Some one told me it would be al most impossible to get close enough to see him," said Mr. Virges. "But I went to the authorities and told them I was a journalist from some Pacific coast newspaper, and after I had secured the necessary papers I went to the maneuvers in an automobile, pulled out the papers and passed the police. who saluted. I took with me to a hotel afterward two Philadelphians, and we dined overlooking the boulevard where the Kaiser was to pass. Almost immediately he appeared, and when the Philadelphians cheered the Kalser looked up and saluted."

Mr. and Mrs. Coovert nearly go locked up in the opera here.

"Mrs. Coovert, whom I came over to bring home from her studies in Dres died. The curious thing was that when we left our hats coming in neither of ounces. us took any notice where. When we came out we could not find the same cloakroom and neither of us could speak one word of French. We presented the ticket at four different places, and I was getting mad. After everybody else was gone one of the attendants, taking my wife by the arm showed us the place. They were just slamming the doors when we started out of the building.

"After these experiences I am strong ly in favor of a universal language and that ought to be the American language.-New York Herald.

The Striking Way an Oxford Notable Won a Nickname.

Dean Stanley once went late to dinner with his collar flapping. His hostess ventured to ask him if he knew. "Oh, yes!" answered the dean. "Do you mind?" "Not at all." said the lady. "Then I don't mind, either. The button dropped off while I was dressing." And the dean continued his conversation.

Rev. W. H. Túckwell is responsible for the history of how an Oxford notable in the thirties got his nickname, "Presence of Mind" Smith. He went boating with a friend and returned alone and was asked what had become of his companion. He explained that his friend had fallen into the Thames, "and if I had not with great presence of mind hit him on the head with a boat hook the both of us would have been drowned."

The late Joseph Joachim was a great favorite in London, and for more than sixty years rarely missed a season there. A certain nobleman told him that he was going to St. James' hall to hear him, and Joachim later asked him if he had found it tedious. "Not at all," serencly answered the titled personage. "I enjoyed myself immensely. you that my watch lost half an hour I did not recognize you at first under every day, and now that you've repair. your disguise as a nigger, but later I laughed all the more." The younger son of a well-known politician of Chicago has spent pretty much all of his life in the big city by the lake, and, consequently, knows little of country ways and things.

Not long ago he visited a man he had met in Chicago, and who maintains a big farm near Cairo, whither he had lengthy stay.

One day the Chicago youth was wandering about the farm, closely examining the top, ends and sides of a certain trim, well-made object fenced round in the paddock.

"What are you searching for, Jimmy?" asked the owner of the place, with a quizzical smile.

"Where are the doors and windows?" asked Jimmy.

CATARRH BLOOD AND SYSTEM DISORDERED

Catarrh is not merely an inflammation of the tissues of the head and throat, as the symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, mucous dropping back into the throat, continual hawking and spitting, etc., would seem to indicate; it is a blood disease in which the entire circulation and the greater part of the system are involved. Catarrh is due to the presence of an excess of uric acid in the blood. The Liver, Kidneys and Bowels frequently become torpid and dull in their action and instead of carrying off the refuse and waste of the body, leave it to sour and form uric acid in the system. This is taken up by the blood and through its circulation distributed to all parts of the system. These impurities in the blood irritate and inflame the different membranes and tissues of the body, and the contracting of a cold will start the secretions and other disgusting and disagreeable symptoms of Catarrh. As the blood goes to all parts of the body the catarrhal poison affects all parts of the system. The head has a tight, full feeling, nose continually stopped up, pains above the eyes, slight fever comes and goes, the stomach is upset and the entire system disordered and
